Dear Dr. McAllister:

This is just a follow-up note to thank you for your support for the FASEB conference on transgenic animals. The conference was a tremendous success, with some very important new data presented. For example, the conferees were the first to hear of the new results concerning transgenic models for Alzheimer's disease. We also learned of new successful efforts to produce leaner pork by transgenic technology as well as improved milk in transgenic cattle. In addition, important new strategies were presented for introducing large gene constructs into animals. I think there was a general consensus that the conference should be repeated. If we do this, it will be in 1992. If we go forward, we certainly hope you will consider supporting us again.

Best wishes,
